Category 1: No evidence has been presented regarding these voters.

Category 2: No evidence has been presented about these votes by Contestants; their votes were either cast at the polls, delivered to the precinct board or delivered by the voter directly to the clerk; in addition, there are no challenges about the mailing address or return address of ballots from these votes.

Category 3: These voters all testified that they freely cast their own ballots; all ballots were either cast at the polls, delivered to the precinct board, or delivered by the voter directly to the clerk; and there are no problems regarding the mailing address or return address of ballots from these voters.

Category 4: Each of these voters testified and various questions have been raised whether they freely cast their own ballots. The Contestants have not produced clear and convincing evidence about any of these votes.

Category 5: Various allegations have been made that these voters did not reside in the precincts where they were registered, but the evidence has been rebutted.

Category 6: Evidence has been submitted that these voters moved from their registered address, but the Contestants have failed to prove that these lost their previous residence or that they resided outside of their precinct.

Category 7: Evidence has been presented that these voters resided outside their precinct during the 28-day period preceding June 7, 1983.

Category 8: Voters whose ballots have been challenged and whose ballots were mailed to an address other than their residence address.

Category 9: Voters whose ballots have been challenged because the return address on the ballot envelope was not their registered address.

Category 10: Voters whose ballots have been challenged on the ground they were hand delivered by other than the voter.

Category 11: Voters whose ballots have been challenged because someone helped them with their ballot or because they voted their ballot in the presence of another person.

Category No. 1: No evidence has been presented regarding these voters.
