

E.P.A. Forum On Federal Cutbacks

A Community Forum to discuss the impact of federal spending cuts on the East Palo Alto community and related issues will be held on Sunday, March 11, at 2:30 p.m. in the Ravenswood High School "J" Building.

In letters mailed to over 200 community organizations and residents, the organizers of the forum voiced concern for the negative impact which the cutbacks will have on the black community, and they also express the hope that the community will begin to discuss the meaning of the cutbacks, their underlying causes, and what measures should be taken.

A partial listing of those community programs which might be affected include the food stamps and welfare programs, Info Centers, housing programs, Charles Drew Health Center, Nairobi College and college students on work-study or with loans, child care centers, head start programs in the Ravenswood City School District, summer youth employment programs, and many others.

In addition, many community residents are concerned with the increasing rate of unemployment, rising costs of living, and other such developments which usually accompany the kind of economic crisis that the U.S. economy is currently going through.

Featured on the program will be Professor Donald Harris of the Economics Department at Stanford University; Ed Becks of the San Mateo County Economic (Continued on page 12)

EPA Hypertension Screening Program May Get Axe

The California Committee on Regional Medical Programs has approved a screening program which is designed to detect hypertension among East Palo Alto and East Menlo Park residents. The program will also develop approaches to the problem in those areas.

However, the project may not become a reality, for money to fund the program will not be available if the Nixon administration budget cutbacks are implemented as requested by the president.

Subsequently, monetary awards cannot be made by the California Committee on Regional Medical Programs unless Congress revives a grant for its support which is due to expire June 30.

Funding for the hypertension screening which is also known as high blood pressure would amount to $25,139 for a period of one year, beginning in April 1973.

The Charles R. Drew Neighborhood Health Center in East Palo Alto, which is funded by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare would assume the major responsibility for the project.

Lowell Norling, health center director, noted that 30 per cent of the patient load at the center deals with hypertension problems. Initial screening of the project was aimed at only one-hundred people, but Norling indicated (Continued on page 12)

Ravenswood Plans Voluntary Transfer Visits With Schools

A series of visits designed to explain the Ravenswood High School program and promote voluntary transfer to the East Palo Alto school is currently underway and will continue through March, according to Elvira Monroe, English and journalism teacher, and voluntary transfer promotion coordinator for Ravenswood.

All presentations at area schools will utilize staff and students, and in some cases Ravenswood parents as well. Each of the presentations will have a different approach, developed in conjunction with the principals of the schools being visited.

Parents of students at the feeder schools are invited to all presentations at the feeder schools (schools which send their eighth graders to (Continued on page 12)

OIC Supporters Plan Washington Pilgrimage

To Forestall Funds Cutback

With the demise of the 1962 Manpower Training Act in sight on June 30, 1973 and the subsequent financial cutbacks in all the Opportunities Industrialization Center communities, supporters of the program will join in a nation-wide Pilgrimage to Washington, D.C., March 30.

In a press conference held last Friday before an overflowing crowd at the St. John's Baptist Church in East Palo Alto, Clarence Jackson, chairman of the OICW Board of Directors in Menlo Park outlined the contributions of the OIC's, and he called for community support of the pilgrimage to Washington.

The Pilgrimage to Washington according to Jackson is designed to "bring a greater awareness on the part of the government and the people of the United States of OIC's effectiveness as a viable Manpower Training Program with a track record of accomplishments and the urgent need of designating OIC for separate funding."

To make their voices heard, OIC supporters will also call on their senators, congressmen and congresswomen to lend their support to the retention of the centers which have provided training and other supportive services to the poor, the unemployed and the underemployed. A bi-partisan committee of senators is sponsoring the Opportunities Industrialization Assistance Act of 1973 (Senate Bill 136) which spells out the specific (Continued on page 9)

EPA Residents Incensed Over Students Harrasment

The East Palo Alto Municipal Council was bombarded with a series of protests last Monday night by community residents and students alike over what some residents called the harrasment, abuse and neglect of students bused from East Palo Alto to other high schools in the Sequoia School District.

Named repeatedly in the allegations were San Carlos High School and Carlmont High School in San Carlos.

Mrs. Ricky Bailey, a resident lodged several complaints to the council on how many East Palo Alto students were not encouraged to learn, and subsequently cast as aside as recalcitrant elements.

She charged the teachers and administrators in Carlmont and San Carlos High Schools do not show interest in the students from east of the bayshore.

Mrs. Bailey's allegations were corroborated by many of the high school students in attendance.

She charged that students are being made useless not only to themselves but also to the community by the abuse and harrasment meted out to them.

Mrs. Bailey who herself was a graduate of Ravenswood High School noted that when school integration was first initiated in the early 1960s, it was designed to bring quality education to the community (Continued on page 9)

Nairobi College To Sponsor Community Re-Entry Confab

Nairobi College's Community Re-Entry Program will sponsor a conference Saturday and Sunday, March 10 and 11 at The Black House in Berkeley, 2131-4th Street, to develop an effective re-entry resources-referral services.

In far too many instances prisoners and ex-offenders have employment, education and housing needs that go unanswered because of a lack of coordination, and despite that such vital resources are available.

Nairobi's Re-Entry Program will provide the centralized data bank needed to match available resources to the specific demands of individual prisoners and former offenders. Input from community organizations and workers is essential.

Registration will be open from 8:30 - 10:00 a.m., Saturday, with the Conference scheduled from 10:00 - 5:00 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. A $10.00 registration fee is asked of all participants, and lunch will be provided both days.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting the Prison Project, Nairobi College, 635 Donohoe St., East Palo Alto 94303, (415) 323-8501.

Parent Club Rebuts Discrimination Charge

To the Editor:

A reply to the letter which appeared on the editorial page of the Ravenswood Post, 2/21/73, submitted by Mr. Joseph E. Hughes.

I would like to set the record straight. There was no meeting held at Garden Oaks by the "Try Club" on Monday, February 19, 1973. 'The Ladies Luncheon League,' 2284 Old Middlefield Way, Suite 6, Mountain View, California, 94040, telephone 961-3483 did sponsor a "Ladies Luncheon" for the Garden Oaks Parent Group. 'Ladies Luncheon League' is sponsored by national food companies. It is the intention of the companies to have ladies taste their prepared products and then the hostess shows these products to the ladies so that they might look for and hopefully purchase these brands when they go to the supermarket. The luncheon was sponsored by the above named organization, and the proceeds went to the Garden Oaks Parent Group.

It is possible that Mr. Hughes picked up some literature that was being distributed by one of the ladies who had bought a ticket for the luncheon. At no time during the two hour luncheon did anyone discuss any community projects before the audience. The entire program was used by the sponsors of the program to talk about the products they were serving.

I did inform Mr. Hughes that the luncheon was for ladies, and I indicated to him that he may stay if he wished, however it was for ladies.

BLACK-WORLD-VIEW

A twice-monthly column of opinion and analysis from the Institute of the Black World, Atlanta, Ga.

FOREWARNINGS OF THE NIXON STATE

Since the Depression of the 1930's, the foundation of black employment has rested with the Federal Government. Now the issue of continued government support is upon us, and black leaders are complaining that jobs for blacks are coming through (when at all) too slowly, in too few numbers, and at too low a level of responsibility.

While these leaders petition Nixon for the resumption of political favors, black Republicans seek to draw closer to the president and his new cabinet for the few economic concessions that remain. Such concessions are no longer relevant, for they only benefit the merest handful of black individuals who still try to cling to the source of white power. They have nothing to do with the fundamental interest of the black community as a whole. What we need to recognize is that these are old questions and tactics from an outmoded and individualist politics. We need entirely new questions — and an entirely new relation to government.

Our position prior to the 1972 presidential election and since then has been that the era even of tokenism is over. In October and November, 1972, we printed forewarnings of the Nixon State. Some excerpts from them follow. Our position then is still our position now, that white political power, given the current national mood, cannot address even minimal black needs:

"White Abdiction and Black Challenge" (from October, 1972):

"Confronted by the disintegration of the American political system, and confronted by the failure of his own policies, Nixon is replacing the old system with an anti-democratic political-military force of his own making. His policies are like bird dung scattered before the wind. Inflation is rising as is unemployment, more taxes are coming, the cost of living will continue to rise (especially the price of bread, oil, utilities, air fare, etc.). The economy is still under attack from abroad, the poor are still being taxed to subsidize the rich (General Motors just announced the largest profit margin in its history under price controls!), and blacks are ignored altogether. It is even conceivable that he might step up the war in Vietnam after a November victory.

"This administration is so anti-democratic and so dangerous, even to whites, that one expectantly waits for a massive hue and cry to arise in the land. But just the opposite is the case. It is precisely this dictatorship which white folk are clamoring for: re-elect Nixon. They do not mind that he rules almost supremely, unchecked by law or public opinion, governing by espionage at home and naked force abroad, packing the Supreme Court to uphold his prejudices, disbanding the laws he cannot use, reducing the Congress to servile self-castrating impotence, sending his henchmen into the FBI and Justice Department. (Who will police the policemen, investigate the investigators?) The American political system, the vaulted checks and balances, have been reduced to farce and the people love it. There is no one to stop Nixon. He stands above accountability.

"And this present moment, as bad as it is, is still not the real story. Nixon is propping things up until after the election. Then the real contradictions will surface and the bottom probably drop out. And when the crisis ripens, they will look around for scapegoats as they always have. And what new drama will be played out in black lives then?

"What is happening in America would be comical if one did not have to live it. Now the madness and the corruption are all intertwined. There are no checks and balances left. Except maybe us. But the best of us and the worst of us do not seem to know what time it is. The question now is not, nor perhaps ever was: can we beat the system? The system is beating itself. But as it collapses around us, we are still coolly playing to the gallery, still personally trying to make it in an America fading beyond all recognition...

The End of Tokensim' (from November, 1972):

"The era of tokenism is over, as is the era of 'let's pretend.' Now white society is, by and large, turning its back on us. Not just on 'the extremists,' or 'the militants,' but on ordinary blacks in high classes and low. hat was the meaning of Nixon's landslide election. His new majority was, and is, built upon the same old racism. The issues — crime, welfare, and busing — were all code words for us. The war and the economy were secondary to white America, dwarfed by the menace of the 'black peril.'...

"So white folks are on the offensive and we are on the run. That's another meaning of the presidential election which the handout kids, those black people who lined up behind Nixon to get the goodies, may yet discover to their sorrow. The expected handouts may not be forthcoming, because black Nixonites did not deliver the black vote (nearly 90 percent of blacks voted Democratic), and because the precise price which Nixon has paid for white citizen support is 'to cut back on social programs and keep us in our place.' For Nixon to forsake that commitment would be to forsake the only real mandate that he has; it would be to befriend blacks and betray whites. That hardly strikes us as likely.

"What has been established once again is that America is for white folks. That is the political dilemma which white Democrats must contend with. They must reorganize and compete for the white masses who have defected to Nixon and Wallace, or see their party fade into irrelevance.

"What We Face" (from November, 1972):

"Blacks in America are now a liability, so we are being evicted from American economic, political, and social concerns and structures. That's why there is a job shrinkage. The country has other priorities. Our Depression is at hand. The white policy-makers have decreed it.

"Exactly what the future holds no one can tell. What is clear is that the white employers and funders, such as government (federal and state) and foundations, are phasing blacks out. What we must do therefore is to prepare for the even leaner times that are coming. And we prepare best, we feel, by casting away illusions and preparing for a new and higher struggle — one which will be, in James Boggs' words, 'a drastic departure from the old.'...

"There is, of course, much more to say about the immediate future of black institutions, the new directions for black struggle, and what is involved in the vision of what we, as a people, need to do. We will be saying a great deal about all of these matters in 1973. In the meantime we wish to reaffirm our basic position by quoting something from Brother Bob Allen which appeared in the September, 1972, "Black Scholar":

"...In the context of the present crisis confronting American society, a militant, independent and strong black liberation movement is the best vehicle for assuring that ... the needs and aspirations of the black population ... (will be met)..."

"To that we say: Amen."

Q — I know I read it somewhere, but can you tell me when I will receive the 1973 dividend on my "V"-prefixed National Service Life Insurance policy?

A — The dividend will be paid automatically on the anniversary date of your policies still in force. The same holds true for veterans with "K"-prefixed United States Government Life Insurance policies.

Q — My wife and I were recently divorced, and I am in school under the GI Bill. When will my allowance be cut to the amount for a single veteran?

A — Your allowance will be reduced at the end of the year, or at the end of your current term, whichever comes first.

Q — I am a married female veteran with three children. I am 50 percent disabled, and drawing compensation and allowances for my children, but not my husband. Why can't I receive such an allowance for him?

A — You should contact the Veterans Administration immediately. A law passed last October (PL 92-540) now entitles you to claim him for an allowance.

BRENTWOOD SECOND GRADERS practice on their talking computer to develop their reading skills.

'Talking Computer' At Brentwood School

Second graders from Brentwood Elementary School in East Palo Alto are active participants in an innovative reading program developed by Stanford University. The early reading program which employs a talking computer is one of the 10 projects selected in a nation-wide study.

One of the innovative aspects of the Stanford-Brentwood reading instruction program is the digital representations of sounds in the computer's memory. The digits for a particular sound can be picked out of the memory and changed back to the original word or phrase as needed during instruction.

Second graders participating in the program are allotted 15-minute reading sessions each with the talking computer during which trained proctors as well as the student's teacher are available. The system incorporates a relatively simple and inexpensive stations which consist of a model 33 typewriter with an amplifier and headset.

This is connected via telephone lines with the computer at Stanford where responses of participating students can be analyzed by Stanford researchers. The researchers hope to develop new strategies which will make tremendous contribution to the theory of instruction.

The Brentwood program supplements classroom reading instruction by enabling the student to associate sounds with the letter groups he sees. The student learns individual letters, then a sight-world vocabulary, spelling patterns, and phonetic units in successive strands which culminate with comprehension exercises.

"Guiding the development of the innovative reading program has been a conviction that while different methods of instruction have their importance, the most significant element in helping students to read is to provide individually tailored instructions which is sensitive to each typed response the student makes, said Professor Richard C. Atkinson, director of the program and chairman of the Stanford Psychology Department.

The Educational Testing Service (ETS) of Princeton, New Jersey, chose the Brentwood-Stanford program in order to "describe compensatory reading characteristics and their relation to student achievement and attitudes toward reading," according to the Stanford New Service.

January Crime Report Shows Slight Decrease

There was a slight reduction in felony (including burglary) and misdemeanor in the East Palo Alto in January, according to the Sheriff's Substation monthly report delivered before the East Palo Alto Municipal Council last week by Lt. Gerald McNamara. Compared to the same period last year, this reflects a positive trend in the community.

The January report indicates there were 127 burglaries and 21 arrests for either burglary or receiving stolen property. There were 134 such arrests for the same period in 1972 and only 89 for 1971, the report added.

Lt. McNamara stated because an accelerated rate of arrests has not brought a reduction in burglaries, the Sheriff's office is instituting a survey of those 134 arrests for 1972 to determine what happened to the offender following his arrest.

It would try to find out how many convicted burglary actually were sentenced to State Prison or County Jail; how many petitions were filed against juvenile burglars and how many suspects were released on bail, on their own recognition or by recommendation of the probation officer prior to a court hearing.

The survey would also try to find out how many burglars were arrested more than once during the year. The survey, which will be made available to the Law Enforcement Advisory Committee, will be included in next month's report.

The report further commended residents for making 68 calls to the Substation to report prowlers or suspicious characters. These reports accounted for the sheriff's success in burglary apprehensions.

Meanwhile, preparations are under way for the transfer of the Block Volunteer Program from the Community Youth Responsibility

Program to the Sheriff's substation; and a number of people have been recruited to act as block captains.

Each of the four burglary detectives has been assigned a geographical area along with patrol officers, community relations and community service officers to provide security information and home security checks to residents.

A WOMAN'S MAIN INGREDIENTS

Women are a special flower. They always reflect a refreshing spirit. They can be of any language. Women are an exotic fruit that gets ripper with time, if time is spent being a woman.

When I think of what I want HER to be to me, I think of perfume, silk, and a silhouette-shaped shadow, always feminine, with a beautiful temperament, maintaining a pure and paradisaical image and thoughts.

The voodoo associated with this dream of mine is that men usually write a wordless song, so women do their thing to a different tune. We build them up to the elegant condition of our own program, so what HE thinks woman is, so she tries to be.

We use them as sex objects, we take our social frustrations out on them. We use them as a persuasive symbol in search for ourselves, hoping at least psychologically to be man enough not to be disappointing. The cause of most disappointments is overexpectation. Fundamentally, understanding and communication should be the formula for personality growth and relationship strengthening.

I feel that the liberated woman is a victim of man's selfish ego and lack of sensitivity. Women should not be expected to fulfill all of man's needs, but can be the motivating force in his striving for self-perfection.

EXPLORER JOHN SCHWARTZ makes a test call on Ravenswood's new switchboard, under the watchful eye of Betty Allen, Ravenswood program director, and Mondy Lariz, PT/T toll transmissionman.

Ravenswood Gets PBX Switchboard

An old switchboard got a new lease on life at Ravenswood High School recently, thanks to the joint efforts of Pacific Telephone's Palo Alto Community Relations Team and members of Explorer Post 203.

The switchboard, an older PBX model still common in many small and medium businesses, was donated to Ravenswood High by the PT&T group late last year.

But a switchboard that can't switch would end up as just another dust collector.

"The PBX was intended to be used by business students as a training aid," explained Bob Crouse, local PT&T manager and community relations team member. "But, unless a qualified group could be found to recondition and install the unit, it would have been almost useless."

Word got around to Mondy Lariz, a toll transmissionman for PT&T in Palo Alto, as well as to other phone men who served as advisors for Explorer Post 203 in their spare time.

"The Explorers went for the rewiring and installation idea in a big way," said Lariz, who with fellow advisors Jim Pillow, Rick Maltone and Clark Woodward launched "Operation PBX."

"With a little advice from us, and a big hand from the Explorers, we felt we could have the old PBX ready for class by spring."

Working one night per week since Dec. 1, the group had the entire switchboard rewired, installed and ready for action by Washington's Birthday.

According to Mrs. June Terzich, a business education teacher at Ravenswood, the like-new PBX will be used to teach proper telephone etiquette, as well as training for receptionists, secretaries and other positions requiring PBX skills.

"It's exactly like a business switchboard, except for one thing," said Mrs. Terzich. "Students can place calls to anywhere except out of the classroom."

Council Seeks Volunteers For Study On Child Care

"Who looks after the children when Mother can't? Or, does anybody care?" is the question being asked in the community by the Child Care Coordinating Council of San Mateo County.

According to Martha Henry, President of the non-profit organization, United Bay Area Crusade cares enough about San Mateo County children to fund a three month project to help the Council assess the needs, try and find answers, and to assist people who care about children and their care to come together to study the situation.

Recognizing that today many mothers are obliged to work out of their homes, others are hoping to join the job market, while still others, for a variety of reasons, need child care, too, on a full time or part time basis, the Child Care Coordinating Council, frequently called 4-Cs, is seeking out volunteers to form a local study committee.

The committee will attempt to determine where the community child care facilities are located at present, where others may be needed, what kinds are needed, and how East Palo Alto families meet the problem now.

Anyone wishing to serve on the local committee or who knows of anyone who might be interested in serving is urged to contact Area Vice President Clifford Boxley at 369-8249 or phone or write the Child Care Coordinating Council, 3802 El Camino Real, San Mateo, California 94403, telephone 349-5588.

Suits Filed To Thwart Housing Discrimination

Five cases of alleged housing discrimination were filed by attorneys for Operation Sentinel, the Fair Housing program of the Stanford Midpeninsula Urban Coalition. All the cases were filed in the Federal Court during the week of January 28, 1973.

One case involved a Black serviceman from a Naval Base who was denied an apartment by an owner who told him that he would just be a "troublemaker."

In another case, a white woman was evicted because she has Black friends who visited too often. A jury trial has been requested in this case.

The third case involved an interracial couple. When the Caucasian wife went alone to see the apartment, a lease was signed and a deposit taken. The owner assured the woman the apartment would be available in one week. Things took a different turn when the husband, who is black, returned with his wife.

The apartment owner demanded additional credit references and was extremely rude. He finally refused to rent outright to "your kind." The other two cases were the "Oh, it's just been rented," variety of turnaround.

Solon Seeks Dissatisfied Postal Service Patrons

Congressman Jerome R. Waldie, D-Antioch, a member of the House of Representatives' Postal Service Subcommittee, has called on dissatisfied patrons of the United States Postal Service to describe to him the nature of mail service problems so that the Subcommittee can propose solutions to deteriorating service.

Waldie said that he has already received numerous letters critical of the Postal Service and citing numerous delays in mail, lost mail, and such instances as the discovery of sealed railroad cars loaded with six-month-old mail.

"I am urging post office customers who have experienced undue delays and lost mail to tell me of their individual cases in order to check out the effect of recently enacted Postal Service policies on mail delivery," Waldie said. "I myself believe that the Washington management of the Postal Service has cut routes, reduced key jobs in the field, and ordered arbitrary and unfair work shifts in order to save money at the cost of efficiency.

"At the same time the Postal Service is attempting to hire a multitude of highly-paid, under-experienced executive with high-sounding titles and little to do," Waldie said.

Waldie asked that persons with cases of specific postal problems write to him at his Washington, D.C. office, Room 408, Canon House Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20515.

Waldie said that all communications would be treated as confidential.

Mrs. Gertrude Wilks, founder and proprietor of Nairobi Day School and director of Mothers for Equal Education, will be honored at a Founder's Day Dinner on Saturday, March 10 at the First Congregational Church 1985 Louis Road, Palo Alto.

A recent recipient of a national award from the Black Child Development Institute in Washington, D.C., Mrs. Wilks is locally held in high esteem for her unflinching devotion to the intellectual and social improvement of blacks.

The BCDI is an independent Black non-profit agency working at the national level as advocate and a resource for meeting the comprehensive developmental needs of Black children.

The outstanding quality of the child development services of the Nairobi Day School and the exemplary work being done by the Mothers for Equal Education was also cited. The MEE is the first organization in the nation to receive the special award from the institute.

In announcing the award, Ms. Evelyn Moore, executive director of BCDI emphasized that "it is important for Black people and the Black community to acknowledge creative and bold efforts by blacks in their various fields for the betterment of our children."

Fever Blisters

Last in a series of four articles dealing with oral and dental problems.

Blisters which form along the outer edge of the lips or under the nostrils are commonly called fever blisters or cold sores because years of observation have shown that they often accompany respiratory infections or some other temperature disturbance such as sunburn. Broken fever blisters expose ugly, irregular, flat sores often covered with yellowish crusts. They are frequently quite painful, but usually heal without scars in about two weeks. The National Institute of Dental Research, a component of the National Institutes of Health, conducts and supports studies of this disease which frequently is recurrent. It seems to run in some families, and often affects the immune system of the body.

Millions of people develop fever blisters in reaction to a second exposure to a common virus. The first attack usually occurs in children under five. It may not even be noticed at that time because its small, whitish blisters appear inside the mouth, and generally bring no noticeable discomfort. The cause is type 1 of the herpes simplex virus. Only rarely does this type of the virus affect some other place such as the eye. Occasionally, it gets into the blood stream where it can be serious for infants.

The virus is spread by direct contact, but is not very contagious except when sanitation is poor and living conditions are very crowded. Unlike most infections, however, it is sometimes able to live in a person without causing discomfort until unfavorable conditions enable it to multiply and attack again.

Subsequent attacks or infections are much more noticeable because the blisters are usually conspicuous on the outside of the mouth, and they may erupt at the same spot time after time. The few which pop up inside the mouth are found on immovable tissue such as the gums or the roof of the mouth.

At present there is no drug which will cure a fever blister. However, dentists and physicians can make patients more comfortable by prescribing local anesthetics to relieve pain, ointments to soften crusts, or antibiotics to control secondary bacterial infections which may invade the open sores.

Any sore which does not heal within a week or two should be checked by a professional to avoid complications and to make sure that it receives appropriate treatment. For example, a steroid ointment which may be prescribed for eczema or canker sores is not recommended to relieve fever blisters, as it may do more harm than good.

State Initiates New Anti-Burglary Program

California's most "popular" crime — burglary — is once again the target of a unique program announced last week in Sacramento by Attorney General Evelle J. Younger.

Called Crime-Specific, the new program will begin operation April 1 in 12 California localities under grants totaling $2.5 million from the California Council on Criminal Justice.

Younger, who also serves as chairman of the Council, said that the law enforcement agencies receiving money to fight burglary in their communities were: police departments in the cities of Berkeley, Pasadena, Stockton, Riverside, San Bernardino, Fresno, Anaheim, Santa Ana, Compton, and Richmond; and the sheriff's departments of San Joaquin and San Mateo counties.

The Crime-Specific program is in its second year of operation, beginning last year with the selection of six target areas in California for the country's first multi-jurisdictional attack on a specific crime. At that time, $1.5 million was allocated to anti-burglary programs in San Francisco, Oakland, San Diego, Los Angeles, and Orange and Los Angeles counties.

Early data for the first program, show a substantial decrease in the burglary rate in all six areas, a decrease in the dollar cost of losses, an increase in reporting of burglaries by non-victims, a decrease in "no-force" entries, and a higher proportion of unsuccessful attempts.

Younger said that the "success of the first Crime-Specific program was due to many factors, probably the most important of which was the extremely high caliber of policemen and deputy sheriffs serving the citizens of the pilot areas."

"That factor," he said, "is equally present in the new Crime-Specific program. Cooperation of the media, active interest and support by local citizens, and the financial assistance of the California Council on Criminal Justice were also essential ingredients of the first program's success."

Crime-Specific centers around interdiction of the burglary "system" through public education and involvement, improved home and business security, increased patrolling, better investigation of burglaries that are committed, and a reduction of the market for stolen goods.

Independent evaluation of the results of the new program will be made by the System Development Corporation of Santa Monica, which will also seek to determine whether there is a correlation between the use of narcotics and burglary.

Dollar amounts of the grants announced today are: Berkeley, $167,178; Pasadena, $166,310; Stockton, $170,000; Riverside (city), $164,932; San Bernardino (city), $153,714; Fresno (city), $170,000; Anaheim, $170,000; Santa Ana, $170,000; Compton, $170,000; Richmond, $170,000; San Joaquin County, $170,000; San Mateo County, $170,000.

In addition, the Council allocated $162,717 for public information and education materials for the 12 localities, and $165,000 for the State Bureau of Criminal Statistics to process burglary information received from the 12 law enforcement agencies participating in the program. A grant of $160,000 will be used by System Development Corporation to conduct its evaluation.

Village Problems In Focus

The University Village Improvement Association will be meeting on Thursday, March 8 at 7:30 p.m. in room 14 of the Costano School.

Those having problems pertaining to upgrading the village, street lights, stop signs or deteriorating vacant property are urged to attend so that their problems may be brought into focus.

Gladys Worel, vice president of the association reminds residents of the village that only through concentrated efforts could the village surroundings be improved, so residents are invited to the meeting.

A tentative calendar of events for the year was drawn up at a previous meeting; and the next agenda item is a musical program. Those wishing to help with the musical are advised to attend the meeting or contact Gladys Worel at 325-3588.

Little League Signups Set

Applications for the 1973 Menlo Park American Little League Season are now available in the offices of the following Menlo Park and Atherton Schools: Hillview, La Entrada, La Loma, Las Lomitas, Oak Knoll, Bethany Lutheran, St. Bebe's, St. Joseph's and St. Raymond's.

Armed Robbery At Best Oil

Menlo Park police officer John Murray investigated a report of an armed robbery at the Best Oil Station at Willow Road and Ivy Drive in the Belle Haven district Sunday, March 4.

The station attendant, Byron Tate, told Murray that a male, approximately 25 years of age came into his station, pulled a small revolver and demanded money. The suspect escaped with $56 in cash and some small change.

Black Art Exhibition At Foothill Library

Four noted black artists are displaying their works in an art exhibition continuing through Friday, March 30 at the Foothill College Library in Los Altos.

The free art show sponsored by the Black Students Union is coordinated by Mrs. E. J. Montgomery, artist, lecturer and black art consultant to the Oakland Museum's art division.

Mrs. Montgomery describes the works in cast concrete, drawing, watercolor, ink and graphite as drawn mainly from spiritual and mystical concepts, their themes showing universal symbols while, at the same time, an African thematic impetus is prevalent. She defines black art as the shared, learned, and transmitted artistic expression of black people; art created by blacks and related to their unique cultural experiences.

Exhibitors include Christopher F. Gonzales of Oakland, painter-sculptor whose commissions include two statues commemorating national heroes of the Jamaican Rebellion for the Government of Jamaica, a seven-foot figure of Christ for the Holy Cross Roman Catholic Church, Kingston; a free-style construction in concrete for the owner of the Olympia Hotel, Mona, Jamaica; and a hammered copper relief for the University of West Indies. Gonzales, who holds an MFA in sculpture from the California College of Arts and Crafts, has won honors for group and one-man shows of Jamaican art in Germany, Canada and the United States and has instructed in Demark and Jamaica.

Daniel Bradford, instructor at U.C.—Berkeley and North Paralta College, has an M.A. in painting from the first. He has won awards at the 1962 Missouri State Fair, at Atlanta (GA) University, and at the Watts Festivals of 1970 and 1971. His "Black Untitled II Dimension of the Figure" is in the Oakland Museum collection.

Artist Mikele Egozi, a graduate research assistant in minorities and graduate teaching assistant in fine arts, Washington State University, holds a B.A. from CSU—Hayward. Honors include a travel grant to Africa for the summer of 1973 and a research assistantship in African Art Studies at WSU. The artist has exhibited widely in African media and printmaking shows and holds several gold medals.

Included are ten drawings by Joseph Geran, director of Black Studies and instructor of Drawing, painting and sculpture at California College of Arts and Crafts. Geran, who classifies his work as neo-African, holds an MFA in sculpture from that college.

Library hours are 7:45 a.m. to midnight Monday through Thursday, 7:45 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Friday, and 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday.

SELECTED FROM A bevy of five beautiful girls for the St. Francis of Assisi Church Mardi Gras Queen was Felisa Richards who was crowned by last year's queen Angela Gill. The contest took place last Saturday at the St. Francis of Assisi Church in East Palo Alto. First runner-up was Sally Abao, Martina Brothers was second runner-up while Rita Cortez was third runner-up.

Residents Incensed

(Continued from page 1) because students at Ravenswood did not learn anything then. She suggested that the community compare the numbers of students that went to college from Ravenswood in the 1960s to the number of students who graduated from the 'hill' schools.

She observed that when Ravenswood High School did not have quality education in the 60s, more students went to college and graduated than now that many students from the community are being bused to 'hill' schools.

'Big Daddy' Lloyd Hudson charged that parents who do not have good command of the English language are disrespected by the staff and administrators of the hill schools.

He disclosed that he once went to one of the schools when they had some disturbances on the campus, and he was pushed and shoved around.

After much harangue, council commissioned Councilmember Henry Anthony to meet with Mrs. Bailey, students, parents and school officials of the 'hill' schools to discuss and work out meaningful solutions to the problems.

In other action, the municipal council approved a request that would allow a wash rack to be purchased through the county for East Palo Alto. The rack would be installed in the community so that the street sweeper could remain in East Palo Alto one-hundred percent of the time.

Presently, the street sweeper has to be taken to the county building in Redwood City to be washed and cleaned up.

The total cost of the rack is $3,500 to be paid on a $450 monthly basis. The money for the rack would come out of the county road services fund.

Washington Trip

(Continued from page 1) and unique contributions OIC has made and can make more effectively if adequate funds are provided, Jackson noted.

Claiming that the OICs operating in 113 cities have trained and placed more than 100,000 people in jobs and added one-half billion dollars to the nation's economy, Jackson stated that over $100 million which would have otherwise gone to relief have been saved.

Thousands of people, including Vietnam veterans, are on the waiting list in the more than 113 OICs in the country, he added.

In the Bay Area, 2,800 men and women have been trained and placed in meaningful jobs in business, industry, the health services, and government agencies, since the inception of the program in 1965 in Menlo Park. An additional 2,200 people received training and many other supportive services.

The spokesman added that 70 per cent of OIC students were welfare recipients and others were dependent upon relatives and friends for support. They are wage-earners now, and tax payers too, he added.

Meanwhile, a petition calling on congress and the president to continue and expand support for the OICs is currently being circulated in the community.

Organizers of the Pilgrimage to Washington are calling on every citizen to lend his or her support to the OIC petition and join the pilgrimage.

Opportunity Commission; Warren Hayman, acting superintendent of the Ravenswood City School District; Henry Anthony of the East Palo Alto Municipal Council; and local residents.

In extending the invitation to participate in the Forum to all residents and organizations, the organizers stated that "it is clear that all of the East Palo Alto community stands to lose during the present crisis and cut-backs. The time is now to put aside our differences and cooperate with each other in finding solutions to the problems we face." The Forum is co-sponsored by Committee for Community Control, the Nairobi Youth Awareness Study Group, and the Nairobi College Student Council. For rides, call 325-7868; child-care will be available at Ravenswood.

Screening Program

that "our problem was not lack of patients, but lack of funding to screen more patients."

In approving the project, Regional Medical Projects Review Committee noted that it "relates directly to national interest in hypertension of the American Heart Association and the National Heart and Lung Institute ... The proposed program is for the community of East Palo Alto, where it can be assumed that the incidence of hypertension among the largely black population is unusually high..."

Statistical analysis of encounter forms completed on every patient visit to the Drew Health Center show that hypertension is the most common diagnosis made by the attending physicians. A major medical problem in the entire population, hypertension is said to have 20 percent greater prevalence in blacks.

Detection is simple and treatment, if instituted and continued, is effective in controlling hypertension and its complications.

Dr. June Fisher, health center staff member, is project director. Her reaction to news of the withholding of funding of the grant was, "I'm depressed like everyone is ... the time involved in preparing for the program amounted to hundreds of hours over a year's time..."

Norling says that work is continuing on finding other possible sources of funding for the project.

Organizations which backed the project include the Golden State Medical Association and the Drew Health Center Board of Directors. Members of the Stanford University School of Medicine, Department of Medicine, were involved in planning the program and are consultants to it.

CHATTING AT THE CHAMPAGNE party kicking off the first annual benefit drive for Nairobi Schools Inc. were Loretta Green of East Palo Alto Times, Mrs. Barbara Mouton of Nairobi Schools Inc. and Mrs. Andre Dale, chairman of the benefit drive. The party was held last Saturday at Lenzie's 'Factory' in Palo Alto.

Bay Area Personalities At Nairobi School Benefit

A Parisian Fashion Show and Dance to benefit the Nairobi Day and High School of East Palo Alto, has been set for Saturday evening, March 31 at the Cabana Hyatt House (4290 El Camino Real) in Palo Alto, according to Andre Dale, show chairman.

Ray Taliaferro, San Francisco Channel 4 television personality, will provide commentary for the "Nostalgic Evening" featuring contemporary women's and men's fashions with the look of the 30's. The Show gets underway at 8 p.m. Forty-niner football stars including Vic Washington of Redwood City, Earl Edwards of Mountain View and Bob Hoskins of Los Altos are scheduled to model some of the new fashions.

Over 3000 tickets have gone on sale throughout the Bay Area for this first annual benefit show sponsored by Nairobi School Parents and Friends.

Nairobi Schools is a non-profit, independent school system for kindergarten through high school and is funded entirely through tuitions and private contributions. Founded in 1966 to provide a quality program of instruction as an alternative to public education, the Schools are fully accredited by the State of California and are open to all races and groups, according to Ms. Dale.

"Because out schools do not receive any county, state or federal grants, we depend upon continuing Bay Area support through fund-raising activities such as this show," Ms. Dale said.

The Parisian Show will feature fashions by Lenzie from The Factory boutique in East Palo Alto, as well as fashions modeled by members of the San Francisco social organization, ZA MIA. The evening's music will be supplied by The Up-Tights musical organization and Jim Marks, Bay Area poet and musician, with his Ultra Rhythm Rap.

Donations are $7.50 per person and tickets may be obtained through the Nairobi Schools office or by calling 325-4049.
