

About the Authoress

Poetess Kalamu Chaché is the Nairobi (East Palo Alto, California) Community's own Lady of Poetry.

A Change of Interest is her second published book. The first book, Survival Tactics, was published in 1975; and will soon go into 2nd printing.

published in 1975; and will soon go into 2nd printing.

Considering herself to be a medium through whom messages are received and delivered, Poetess Chaché self-published this book, in her words, "to cause Afrikan people to elevate ourselves to a higher level of consciousness and life in ways that will return us to our original greatness as a people; a people who were indeed the originators of civilization, creators of humanistic value systems, teachers of wisdom, love, and understanding, and masters of the working of the Universe."

A Change of Interest is a continued book documentation of Poetess Chaché's findings and beliefs.

Book Reviews

"... A Change of Interest offers a potent message to the Elder, the parent, the youth, the organizer, and the artist. Each has an obligation to the Black nation, to the Black family, and to each other . . ."

Dr. Frank "Omowale" Satterwhite
President of ISCED

"... Without a doubt, here's a creative power, a creative spirit, / Equalling an inspiration / for all who read it!"

Esther Kletter, ESAA Specialist
Ravenswood City School District

We Don't Have Forever

We don't have forever
To be getting it together.
In order to make it through
One must have principle values.
It's time to be about the business
Of elevating your level of consciousness.
You've been here before.
So, it ain't no need to keep going over the score.
You know exactly why
You must live and die.
There's got to be a time when
All searching must end
And be turned into a positive course of action
Benefitting the masses; not a mere fraction.
It's time for taking care of business to start;
With you doing your part.
So, do it now;
Someway, somehow Because we just don't have forever
To be getting it together.
