STATEMENT OF THE CASE

27

This is an appeal from a judgment granting a petition for writ of mandate. The case involves the incorporation of East Palo

28

1 Alto as a city. The principal issue is whether the citizens' 2 petition instituting incorporation proceedings was signed by the 3 proper number of registered voters. Resolution of that issue, and 4 of most of the other issues raised below, depends on which of two 5 statutes governs the procedures for incorporation of East Palo
6 Alto. The San Mateo County Local Agency Formation Commission
7 ("LAFCO") applied the provisions of the District Reorganization 8 Act (hereinafter "DRA"; Government Code §56000, et seq.) The 9 trial court found that certain provisions of the Municipal Orga-10 nization and Reorganization Act (hereinafter "MORGA"; Government 11 Code §35000, et seq.) take precedence over the DRA. LAFCO 12 determined that the DRA requires petitions for incorporation to be 13 signed by 5% of the registered voters in the area to be incorpo-14 rated. The trial court applied MORGA's provisions requiring 25%.

15 The citizens' petition for incorporation was filed with, 16 and accepted by, LAFCO in October, 1982. It contained signatures 17 of more than 5% of the registered voters in the area proposed for 18 incorporation. All necessary hearings on incorporation have been 19 held and LAFCO has approved incorporation for East Palo Alto. The 20 San Mateo County Board of Supervisors has ordered an incorporation 21 election. The election is presently scheduled for June 7, 1983, 22 with incorporation effective July 1, 1983, if approved by the 23 voters.

24 On March 11, 1983, Joseph Horwath, a resident of Atherton, 25 and three other individuals (hereinafter "Horwath") sued in San 26 Mateo County Superior Court seeking a writ of mandate preventing 27 the incorporation election. The suit named as Respondents LAFCO, 28 the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors (the "Board") and the

1 San Mateo County Clerk (the "County Clerk"). The East Palo Alto
2 Citizens' Committee on Incorporation ("EPACCI") was named as the 3 Real Party in Interest, since it had submitted the citizens' peti-4 tion for incorporation. On April 7, 1983, the Superior Court
5 granted Horwath's petition and issued the writ (J.A., pp. 1164-6 1173).

7 The judgment of the Superior Court was that EPACCI's peti-8 tion for incorporation was fatally defective because it contained 9 the signatures of less than 25% of the voters in the area. In 10 addition, the court found that although LAFCO waived MORGA's two-11 year waiting period, LAFCO failed to make written findings to 12 support the waiver and, further, that LAFCO's decision on waiver 13 was not supported by substantial evidence. The trial court con-
14 cluded that EPACCI's petition was void based on the Court's 15 resolution of these two issues. The Court did not reach any other 16 issues raised below (J.A., p. 1168).

17 Notices of Appeal were filed on April 7, 1983, by EPACCI
18 and on April 8, 1983, by LAFCO, the Board and the County Clerk
19 (J.A., p. 1169, 1174-75). The filing of these notices has stayed 20 the decision of the trial court, and the County Clerk is proceed-21 ing with preparation for the election on June 7, 1983. In this 22 appeal, LAFCO, the Board, the County Clerk and EPACCI ask that the 23 judgment of the trial court be reversed.

24 II

25 BACKGROUND

26 The proceedings for incorporation of East Palo Alto have 27 been lengthy and thorough. However, only a brief statement of the 28 most pertinent events, including earlier LAFCO proceedings on

1 incorporation, is necessary to an understanding of the legal 2 issues.

3 In 1981, EPACCI petitioned LAFCO for incorporation of East
4 Palo Alto as a new city. In response to the petition, LAFCO
5 prepared an EIR, hired a fiscal consultant and held numerous hear-6 ings. These proceedings culminated in approval of incorporation, 7 on the condition that three local districts be dissolved, so their 8 tax bases could be transferred to the new city. The Board agreed 9 and set an election for April, 1982. On the ballot were four 10 separate measures: the incorporation of East Palo Alto and the 11 dissolution of each of the three districts. Separate ballot 12 measures were necessary because the boundaries of the incorpora-13 tion area were different from the boundaries of the districts.
14 Approval of incorporation was conditioned on approval of all four 15 ballot measures (J.A., pp. 796-801).

16 The April, 1982, election results were inconclusive and 17 contradictory. The voters voted strongly in favor of Measure A 18 approving incorporation and in favor of Measures B and D dissolv-19 ing two of the districts. Measure C, however, failed passage by a 20 scant 41 votes (J.A., p. 803(A)).

21 Measure C involved dissolution of the Sanitary District.
22 However, the Sanitary District boundaries, unlike the boundaries 23 of the proposed city and the other two districts, include a small 24 area within the city limits of Menlo Park. The voters living 25 within that area of Menlo Park voted overwhelmingly against dis-26 solution of the Sanitary District (J.A., pp. 803A, 989). Thus, 27 the margin of defeat for Measure C was supplied totally by voters 28 who do not even live in the area to be incorporated.

1           Since incorporation was conditioned on approval of all four 2 measures, incorporation itself was defeated by the failure of 3 Measure C. This was a particularly unfair result since a clear 4 majority of the voters in the incorporation area had voted in 5 favor of Measure C (J.A., p. 989). The election results have 6 created tension in the community because the issue of incorpora-7 tion remains unresolved.

8           In May, 1982, the Board responded to the demonstrated 9 majority sentiment for incorporation and to the tensions created 10 by the unusual election results by petitioning LAFCO to reinsti-11 tute incorporation proceedings. LAFCO denied the Board's request 12 without prejudice because its consultant would not have had time 13 to complete a new fiscal review. When the new fiscal data was 14 ready, EPACCI, instead of asking the Board to reinstitute proceed-15 ings, decided to petition LAFCO for incorporation and district 16 reorganization itself. This gave EPACCI status as a proponent of 17 reorganization under the applicable statutes. Therefore, EPACCI
18 filed its petition, under provisions of the District Reorganiza-19 tion Act, seeking reorganization of certain districts and incorpo-20 ration of East Palo Alto (J.A., pp. 1112-1115).

21           That petition was accepted, the new fiscal data were evalu-22 ated by LAFCO's consultant and lengthy and extensive hearings were 23 held (J.A., p. 1112). LAFCO and the Board approved incorporation 24 after these hearings in January, 1983, and scheduled an election 25 for June 7, 1983 (J.A., p. 183). Incorporation is conditioned on 26 the voters' approval of dissolution of two local districts (County 27 Service Area No. 5 and the Ravenswood Recreation and Park Dis-
28 trict) in order to transfer their tax bases to the new city (J.A.,

1 p. 186). Due to an improvement in the community's position, the 2 Sanitary District's tax base is not needed by the new city.
3 Incorporation is not conditioned on its dissolution. Only one 4 ballot measure is necessary for this election because the 5 boundaries of the proposed city and the two districts are identi-6 cal. No voters from outside the area to be incorporated will be 7 involved in the election. In the June, 1983 election, voters in 8 East Palo Alto will have an opportunity to make a clear decision 9 on incorporation.

10           Incorporation of East Palo Alto was approved by LAFCO
11 because it seemed the best method for breaking the cycle of frus-
12 tration which has characterized past efforts to stimulate badly 13 needed economic development. LAFCO found that the County had made 14 good faith efforts to improve the community, but the County's 15 efforts had not been successful (J.A., p. 1050). LAFCO considered 16 annexing East Palo Alto either to Palo Alto or to Menlo Park, but 17 found that annexation was not feasible (J.A., p. 1050). Because 18 of the vagaries of complex state subvention formulas, East Palo 19 Alto, if incorporated, would receive over a million dollars in new 20 revenue, revenue that it does not now receive because it is unin-21 corporated (J.A., p. 991). Thus, incorporation automatically 22 brings to the community badly needed revenue to address its prob-23 lems. In addition, LAFCO believed that incorporation was the best 24 way to stimulate economic development and end the isolation of the 25 community as an underdeveloped pocket surrounded by successful 26 suburban development and suburban affluence (J.A., pp. 1053-1054).

1 III

2 MORGA v. DRA

3 A. The DRA Applies To Certain Municipal Incorporations

4 The trial court's decision is based on the conclusion that 5 LAFCO's proceedings were governed by MORGA and not by the DRA.
6 The Board, LAFCO and EPACCI believe that LAFCO's proceedings were 7 governed by the DRA, and these are the procedures LAFCO followed.
8 However, the Superior Court held in its memorandum decision that 9 "...the incorporation sections of MORGA must prevail as to pro-10 cedure" (J.A., p. 1166). The Board, LAFCO and EPACCI believe that 11 this holding is erroneous and that its error can be shown by 12 reference to the statutes themselves.

13 First, the DRA clearly provides that incorporations may be 14 conducted under its procedures. Section 56003.1 of the DRA pro-
15 vides:

16 The incorporation of a new city, which is proposed 17 as part of a plan of reorganization, may also be con-
18 ducted in accordance with the procedures for reorga-19 nization set forth in this division [the DRA], unless 20 the board of supervisors objects thereto. (emphasis 21 added)

22 The DRA further provides that it is the sole and exclusive autho-23 rity for proposals made under its auspices. Section 56001 pro-
24 vides:

25 This division shall provide the sole and exclusive 26 authority and procedure for the initiation, conduct 27 and completion of changes of organization and reorga-28 nization.

"Change of organization" and "reorganization" include city incorporations (DRA §§56028, 56061).

Thus, the DRA indicates both that incorporations are

1 authorized under the DRA and that the DRA is the sole and exclu-2 sive authority for incorporations which are part of a plan of 3 reorganization. There is nothing in the DRA which suggests that 4 provisions of MORGA take precedence. The DRA permits incorpora-5 tions "in accordance with the procedures...set forth in this 6 division", and even provides that the DRA is the "sole and exclu-7 sive authority". Not only does the DRA provide that its pro-8 cedures govern, but MORGA explicitly yields to the primacy of the 9 DRA. MORGA §35002 provides:

10           Except as provided in Division 1 (commencing with 11           Sections 56000) of Title 6, this part shall provide 12           the sole and exclusive authority and procedure for the 13           initiation, conduct, and completion of city incorporations, municipal reorganizations, or changes of organization.

14 MORGA applies to municipal incorporations, except as provided in 15 §56000. Section 56000 is the DRA. Therefore, MORGA yields to the 16 DRA as governing certain municipal incorporations.

17           It is significant that when the legislature wants one 18 statute to prevail over another, it says so. MORGA §35150 states 19 that in case of conflict, MORGA prevails over the Knox-Nisbet Act.
20 The DRA has a similar provision, DRA §56250. In contrast, there 21 is no provision in MORGA saying that MORGA prevails over the DRA.
22 Instead, MORGA yields to the DRA, MORGA §35002.

23           In addition, it is essential to recognize a practical 24 matter of central importance. It is impossible for the incorpo-
25 ration of East Palo Alto to have proceeded under MORGA. MORGA
26 only applies to proposals involving cities, and only cities. It 27 does not apply to districts. In the case of East Palo Alto, it is 28 essential both to dissolve certain districts and to incorporate a

1 new city. The DRA contains the authority for dissolving districts
2 and only the DRA contains the authority for both dissolving 3 districts and incorporating a new city in a single comprehensive 4 proposal (§§56003.1, 56061, 56550). MORGA contains no provision 5 for dissolving districts as part of a municipal incorporation.

6 In the case at bar, the new city of East Palo Alto depends 7 upon the tax base of County Service Area No. 5<sup>1</sup> and the 8 Ravenswood Recreation and Park District. Dissolution of those 9 districts is a condition of incorporation. Their tax bases bring 10 $704,000.00 per year to the new city (J.A., p. 1064). That tax 11 base was found by LAFCO to be necessary to the fiscal viability of 12 the new city.

13 Their dissolution is necessary and a condition of the plan of 14 incorporation of East Palo Alto (J.A., p. 1058). Therefore, the 15 incorporation of East Palo Alto is part of a plan for reorganiza-16 tion of districts and is entitled to proceed under the DRA. "Plan 17 of reorganization" includes incorporation of cities and dissolu-18 tion of districts (§56061).

19 Thus, both the DRA and MORGA contemplate a situation
20 involving the incorporation of a new city and the reorganization 21 of districts. Both MORGA and the DRA provide that, in such a 22 case, the procedures of the DRA govern. The two statutes, by 23 their own language, resolve any potential conflict between them.
24 When a new city is being incorporated as part of a plan involving 25 the reorganization of districts, the DRA applies.

---

27 <sup>1</sup>A county service area is a "district" under the DRA. See 28 DRA §56039(n).

1           The DRA sets forth a statutory scheme for processing
2 municipal incorporations which are part of a plan of reorganiza-3 tion. DRA §56039(c) defines "district" to include a city which is 4 being incorporated pursuant to DRA §56003.1. This makes pro-5 visions of the DRA which use the term "district" applicable to 6 cities. DRA §56068 defines "reorganization" to include changes of 7 organization of "each of two or more subject districts, including 8 cities". A reorganization thus includes the incorporation of a 9 city when combined with the dissolution of districts, as is the 10 case here. (See also the definition of "change of organization", 11 §56028; the definition of "plan of reorganization", §56061; and 12 the definition of "subject district", DRA §56072. All include the 13 incorporation of a new city.)

14           The definition sections of the DRA thus include municipal 15 incorporation under certain circumstances. This carries out the 16 provisions of MORGA §35002 and DRA §56003.1 which state that the 17 DRA governs reorganization proceedings which include incorporation 18 of a new city.

19           The trial court gave two reasons for its ruling. First, 20 the court found that MORGA is the more recent act and its pro-21 visions should govern. There is no question that MORGA is more 22 recent than the DRA. However, that does not mean that MORGA
23 applies to proceedings beyond its own terms. MORGA makes no claim 24 to apply to incorporations which involve reorganizations of dis-
25 tricts. In fact, in MORGA refers to the DRA for such procedures, 26 MORGA §35002.

27           The trial court's second finding is that the requirements 28 of MORGA apply because the true purpose of these proceedings is

1 incorporation. The court states that this is "an incorporation 2 with some reorganization incident thereto" (J.A., p. 1166). The 3 court cites no authority to support its findings that the central 4 purpose of a proceeding or the alleged motives of the petitioner
5 should take precedence over plain statutory provisions. The DRA
6 clearly authorizes incorporation that are part of a reorganization
7 (§56003.1). In addition, this finding ignores an important prac-8 tical necessity. Incorporation could not have proceeded under 9 MORGA because the dissolution of districts was a fiscal necessity.
10 MORGA contains no provisions for the dissolution of districts.
11 The DRA was selected as the authorizing enactment because it was 12 the only way to achieve the goal of incorporation.

13 Thus, the DRA governs incorporations which are part of a 14 plan of reorganization. The incorporation of East Palo Alto is 15 part of such a plan.

16 B. The DRA Contains A Signature Requirement For Reorgani-
17 zation Petitions

18 The trial court found that the DRA does not contain a 19 signature requirement for municipal incorporations. The court 20 said, "...none of the several sections in the DRA designating the 21 number of signatures necessary refer to incorporation..." (J.A., 22 p. 1165). The court did not discuss DRA §56191 which refers to 23 the applicable requirements and provides that a petition for muni-
24 cipal incorporation under the DRA shall comply with the signature
25 requirements for the dissolution of a district (§56173). Section 26 56191 is an omnibus clause applying the signature requirements for 27 dissolutions to all proceedings that are not specifically provided 28 for.

1 DRA §56191 provides signature requirements for formation of 2 a new "district" as part of a petition for reorganization. In 3 such a case, the applicable signature requirements are those found 4 in the principal act designated in the petition for reorganiza-
5 tion. If the designated principal act contains no signature
6 requirements, then the DRA's signature requirements for a dissolu-7 tion are to be applied. The requirements for dissolution are 8 found in DRA §56173 and provide that such a petition shall contain 9 signatures of 5% of the registered voters.<sup>2</sup>

10 "District", when used in this context, includes a city, DRA 11 §56039(c). DRA §56191 thus applies to a reorganization which 12 includes the formation of a new city, as is true in the case.

13 In this case, EPACCI designated the DRA as the principal 14 act in its petition (J.A., p. 1112). Since there is no other 15 provision of the DRA setting forth the signature requirements for 16 an incorporation, the DRA applies the signature requirements for 17 dissolution.

18 Thus, Section 56191 of the DRA designates the signature 19 requirements which apply to a plan of reorganization which 20 includes the incorporation of a new city. That section provides 21 that the signature requirements for dissolutions shall govern.

23
24
25 <sup>2</sup>DRA §56191 says "If a petition for reorganization shall 26 include a proposal for the formation of a new district, said peti-27 tion shall comply with the signature requirements, if any, of a 28 petition for formation of such district, as set forth in the principal act designated in said petition for such formation, and if there are no such requirements, then the requirements of this division pertaining to dissolution."

1 Those requirements are found in DRA §56173 and provide that a 2 petition shall be signed by not less than 5% of the registered 3 voters. Therefore, EPACCI's petition complied with DRA §56191 and 4 §56173.

5 In order to interpret §56191, reference must be made to the 6 DRA's definition sections. It is in those sections that the DRA
7 applies its provisions to municipal incorporations. The signature
8 requirements in DRA §56191 apply to "formation of a new district".
9 As noted above, "district" is defined to include a city. There-10 fore, DRA §56191 applies to formation of a new city.

11 As can be seen by reading the Superior Court's memorandum 12 decision, the Court did not analyze the definition section of the 13 DRA. The Court does not even refer to these provisions despite 14 the extensive discussions about them in the briefs and in oral 15 argument before the Court. In addition, the conclusion that the 16 signature requirements of MORGA take precedence must overcome
17 serious analytical problems. Such an analysis has to explain away 18 both the explicit provisions of the DRA and also assume a complete 19 omission in the legislative scheme. This conclusion assumes that 20 having established the DRA as the "sole and exclusive authority" 21 and having authorized incorporations under the DRA, the 22 legislature failed to provide any signature requirement for incor-23 porations under the DRA.

24 IV

25 TWO-YEAR WAIVER

26 The second element of the decision below is based on the 27 court's finding that MORGA §35264 applies. It requires a two-year
28 waiting period before reinstating incorporation proceedings

1 unless LAFCO finds that waiting would be "detrimental to the 2 public interest". In this case, the earlier proceedings were 3 terminated by the election in 1982. The DRA has a one-year wait-4 ing period for certain proceedings, but has no waiting period for 5 incorporation proceedings which are terminated by election 6 ($56272). EPACCI does not agree that MORGA §35264 applies, but in 7 order to be cautious, LAFCO complied with MORGA §35264 and waived
8 the two-year waiting period, as permitted. LAFCO found that wait-9 ing two years would be detrimental to the public interest (J.A., 10 p. 1138).

11           However, the court below found that there was not substan-12 tial evidence to support the finding that a two-year delay would 13 be "detrimental to the public interest (whatever that means)" 14 (J.A., p. 1167). The court below also ruled that LAFCO was 15 required to make written findings on the detriment to the public 16 interest (J.A., pp. 1167-1168). Since LAFCO made only oral find-17 ings and not written findings, LAFCO did not meet the standard 18 established by the trial court.

19           A brief review of the record indicates that there was sub-20 stantial evidence to support LAFCO's decision to waive the two-21 year waiting period. The record in the trial court, and on 22 appeal, contains several categories of evidence which support 23 LAFCO's decision to waive the waiting period. First, LAFCO took 24 testimony at a public hearing on the issue of the waiver. The 25 testimony of two people is particularly relevant. Duane Bay 26 pointed out that during a two-year waiting period, decisions on 27 land use and economic development would be made by the County.
28 These decisions may be difficult to undo, should an incorporated

1 city wish to make other decisions (J.A., pp. 1136-1137).
2 Thomas R. Adams, attorney for EPACCI, testified that decisions on 3 economic development needed to be made immediately and that it was 4 important to put the matter of East Palo Alto's future to rest 5 (J.A., pp. 1134-1135).

6 In addition, LAFCO is presumed to have studied its earlier
7 studies, reviews and reports, as noted in City of Santa Cruz v.
8 LAFCO, 76 Cal.App. 3d 381, 142 Cal.Rptr. 873 (1978). The court
9 there said,

10 LAFCO, as a quasi-legislative administrative 11 agency, must in reason be presumed to have considered 12 its earlier studies, reviews and reports, made at the 13 expense of time and money in response to the Act's 14 mandate, as well as such evidence as was initially 15 produced at the hearings. The validity of such 16 studies, reviews and reports did not depend upon their 17 being "presented" anew to the commissioners at the 18 hearings. As we have pointed out, a quasi-legislative 19 hearing "allowed by legislative grace is not circum-20 scribed by the restrictions applicable to judicial or 21 quasi judicial adversary proceedings." (See Franchise
22 Tax Board v. Superior Court, supra, 36 Cal. 2d 538, 23 549, 225 P.2d 905, 911.) (76 Cal.App. 3d at 392, 142
24 Cal.Rptr. at 880)

25 LAFCO must thus be presumed to have studied its 1981 reports on 26 incorporation.

27 The record of LAFCO's 1981 proceedings contains the infor-28 mation that "in East Palo Alto if the area were either annexed or incorporated...between $800,000 and $1.5 million of new revenue would become available, primarily from new state and federal sources. None of these revenue sources are available as long as the area remains unincorporated", (J.A., pp. 1141-1144). LAFCO thus had information showing that a delay in incorporation was costing a potential new city between $800,000 and $1.5 million.

In addition, LAFCO had just made findings on the reasons

1 for incorporating East Palo Alto. Several of those findings speak 2 to the detrimental effect of any further delay in incorporation.
3 LAFCO found that maintaining the status quo (no incorporation; 4 services provided by the County) was detrimental in several 5 respects. LAFCO found that the status quo was detrimental in the 6 areas of economic development, the isolation of East Palo Alto, 7 the protection of housing stock, reduction of the crime rate and 8 deterioration of water distribution and sewer lines (J.A., 9 pp. 782-795). The County had not been successful in providing 10 necessary services or in promoting economic development (J.A., 11 p. 783). No one considered the status quo to be viable. The only 12 realistic alternative was incorporation (J.A., p. 784). LAFCO had 13 all of these findings before it when it decided that the two-year 14 period should be waived. Since the status quo was detrimental to 15 the public interest, delay in considering and implementing a 16 change was detrimental to the public interest. Thus, abundant 17 evidence in the record and in the declarations supports that con-18 clusion.

19 In addition, the record below shows that the three LAFCO
20 Commissioners who voted to waive the two-year period did so 21 because delaying a decision on incorporation made it difficult for 22 the County to respond to the needs of East Palo Alto, because each 23 year of delay costs the new city between $800,000.00 and 24 $1,000,000.00 in revenue, and because a majority of voters in the 25 1982 election voted in favor of incorporation (J.A., pp. 1145-26 1151).

27 Horwath cited no contradictory evidence to the trial court.
28 Nevertheless, the trial court found that there was no substantial

1 evidence to support the waiver. EPACCI and the County believe 2 that the court's decision was erroneous in light of the evidence 3 discussed above.

4 In addition, LAFCO's decision on waiver was quasi-5 legislative and written findings were not required. LAFCO was 6 entitled to make an oral finding couched in conclusory language, 7 as it did. That LAFCO's decisions are quasi-legislative has been 8 settled in a long line of cases. The court in Bookout v. LAFCO, 9 49 Cal.App. 3d 383, 122 Cal.Rptr 668 (1975), held, "It is settled 10 by a long unbroken line of case authority that the matter of form-11 ing and adding new territory to municipal corporations, like 12 cities and town...are legislative matters which the Legislature 13 has delegated to local municipalities to be performed in accor-
14 dance with the appropriate legislative acts [numerous citations 15 omitted]", 49 Cal.App. 3d at 386-387, 122 Cal.Rptr. at 670. The 16 court also stated that "the nature of the power exercised is 17 legislative and political rather than judicial", 49 Cal.App. 3d at 18 387, 122 Cal.Rptr. at 670; Simi Valley Recreation and Park Dis-19 trict v. LAFCO, 51 Cal.App. 3d 648, 124 Cal.Rptr. 635 (1975).

20 Similarly in Timberidge Enterprises v. City of Santa Rosa, 21 86 Cal.App. 3d 873, 150 Cal.Rptr. 606 (1978), the court noted, 22 "And, of course, being a creature of the Legislature, exercising 23 legislative functions (see City of Santa Cruz v. LAFCO, 76 24 Cal.App. 3d 381, 142 Cal.Rptr. 873) it [LAFCO] has only such 25 powers as are bestowed upon it by the Act [Knox-Nisbet]", 86
26 Cal.App. 3d at 883, 150 Cal.Rptr. at 612.

27 The most thorough and compelling discussion of the nature 28 of LAFCO's actions is found in City of Santa Cruz, supra. In a

1 unanimous decision, that court stated,

2 An administrative agency such as LAFCO is nonethe-
3 less quasi-legislative in nature, though it holds 4 public hearings and considers "testimony presented by 5 an affected local agency or county or any interested 6 person who wishes to appear." "[T]he fact that in the 7 subject proceedings the [agency] was not enacting 8 ordinances embodying rules and regulations does not 9 make its actions any less quasi-legislative. [¶] Nor 10 does the presence of certain elements usually char-11 acteristic of the judicial process mean that [its] 12 action was quasi-judicial...[¶]...The Legislature and 13 administrators exercising quasi-legislative powers 14 commonly resort to the hearing procedure to uncover, 15 at least in part, the facts necessary to arrive at a 16 sound and fair legislative decision...Hence the 17 presence of certain characteristics common to the 18 judicial process does not change the basically quasi-19 legislative nature of the subject proceedings."
20 (Wilson v. Hidden Valley Mun. Water Dist., supra, 256 21 Cal.App. 2d 271, 279, 63 Cal.Rptr. 889, 893.)

22 "Mere ascertainment of facts as a basis for legis-23 lation does not render the process judicial or any-24 thing less than quasi-legislative." (City Council v.
25 Superior Court, 179 Cal.App. 2d 389, 393 3, Cal.Rptr.
26 796, 799.) "Where the proceedings are quasi-27 legislative in character, a hearing of a judicial type 28 is not required; a hearing allowed by legislative grace is not circumscribed by the restrictions applicable to judicial or quasi judicial adversary proceedings." (Franchise Tax Board v. Superior Court, 36
Cal. 2d 538, 549, 225 P.2d 905, 911; Brook v. Superior Court, 109 Cal.App. 2d 594, 606, 241 P.2d 283.) "To restrict [a quasi-legislative] agency to evidence produced at the time and place specified in the public notice would generate undesirable inflexibility" (California Optometric Assn. v. Lackner, 60 Cal.App.
3d 500, 508, 131 Cal.Rptr. 744, 750). It is commonly accepted practice, not at all incompatible with the concept of a public hearing, for quasi-legislative agencies to receive staff recommendations before the hearing. The complexity of matters before legislative bodies simply does not permit them to act only on input received at the hearing (Los Angeles County
Civil Service Com. v. Superior Court, 73 Cal.App. 3d 998, 1004, 141 Cal.Rptr. 126, 130. (76 Cal.App. 3d at 388, 142 Cal.Rptr. at 873)

26 The court continued,

27 ///

28 ///

1 An administrative order, legislative in character,
2 is subject to the same tests as to validity as an act
3 of the Legislature." (Knudsen Creamery Co. v. Brock, 4 37 Cal. 2d 485, 494, 234 P.2d 26, 31; Board of Super-5 visors v. California Highway Commission, 57 Cal.App.
6 3d 952, 960, 129 Cal.Rptr. 504.)

7 Written findings of fact are customarily required 8 in judicial proceedings, or those of a quasi-judicial 9 administrative agency, for in such contexts the rights 10 of persons are involved. However, no statute or 11 authority known to us requires such findings in quasi-12 legislative determinations. As said in Wilson v.
13 Hidden Valley Mun. Water Dist., supra, 256 Cal.App. 2d 14 271, 280, 63 Cal.Rptr. 889, 894, "the one determines 15 individual rights, while the other involves the exer-16 cise of a discretion governed by considerations of the 17 public welfare." Written findings of fact are alien 18 to legislative procedures, for no person has a right 19 to the adoption of legislation. And no one has any 20 right, constitutional or otherwise, to be included, or 21 excluded, from a proposed annexation. (citations 22 omitted)

23 City of Santa Cruz has been cited and relied upon for this 24 proposition in several subsequent cases, Timberidge, supra, Santa 25 Ana, supra, Stauffer Chem. Co. v. Cal. Air Resources Board, 128 26 Cal.App. 3d 789 at 794, 180 Cal.Rptr. 550 at 553 (1982), and 27 Carlton Santee v. Padre Dam Municipal Water District, 120 Cal.App.
28 3d 14 at 19, 174 Cal.Rptr. 413 at 415 (1981).

19 The Superior Court cites no authority for its decision that 20 written findings are required to support quasi-legislative action.
21 There is no statutory requirement for written findings. The usual 22 judicial authority for such a proposition is the seminal decision 23 in Topanga Ass'n for a Scenic Community v. County of Los Angeles, 24 11 Cal. 3d 506, 113 Cal.Rptr. 836 (1974). However, the Topanga
25 decision does not apply to quasi-legislative proceedings. Ensign 26 Bickford Realty Corp. v. City Council, 68 Cal.App. 3d 467, 472, 27 137 Cal.Rptr. 304, 307 (1977); McKinney v. Oxnard Union High 28 School District, 31 Cal. 3d 79, 88, 181 Cal.Rptr. 549, 553 (1982).

1           Thus, the traditional rule applies that findings may be 2 stated in ultimate facts, Martin v. Alcoholic Beverage Control
3 Bd., 52 Cal. 2d 238, 248, 340 P.2d 1, 7 (1959); Palm Springs Turf
4 Club v. California Horse Racing Bd., 155 Cal.App. 2d, 242, 245,
5 317 P.2d 713, 715 (1957). The Agency is entitled to the presump-
6 tion that it has acted in accordance with law (Evidence Code 7 §664), and its findings may even be implied Sacramento Municipal 8 Utility District v. P.G.& E., 72 Cal.App. 2d 638, 647, 165 P.2d
9 741, 746 (1946); Albonico v. Madera Irrigation Dist., 53 Cal. 2d 10 735, 741, 3 Cal.Rptr. 343, 376 (1960).

11           These principles were discussed by the California Supreme 12 Court in Southern Calif. Jockey Club v. Calif. Horse Racing Bd., 13 36 Cal. 2d 167, 223 P.2d 1 (1950). In that case, the Horse Racing 14 Board was obligated to base its licensing decisions on the "public 15 interest". The court found that the board was a quasi-legislative 16 agency and should be accorded wide latitude in making determina-17 tions regarding the "public interest". The court said:

18           This is especially true where most of the evidence 19 consists of opinion, and the issues involved -- public 20 interest and purposes of the act are general and 21 incapable of exact definition..."A moments reflection 22 upon the very nature of the determination that the 23 board was required to make shows that such determina-24 tion must be produced, not upon provable concrete 25 facts, but upon opinion evidence exclusively." In 26 such a case, wide discretion is necessarily vested in 27 the factfinder. Southern Calif. Jockey Club v. Calif.
28 Horse Racing Board, 36 Cal.2d 167, 177, 223 P.2d 1, 7-8 (1950).

25 See also, Palm Springs Turf Club v. Calif. Horse Racing Bd., 155
26 Cal.App. 2d 242, 317 P.2d 713, 715-716 (1957).

27           Thus, Topanga type written findings are not required in 28 this quasi-legislative determination. LAFCO has entitled to rely

1 on opinion evidence and on the lengthy record before it. In such 2 a setting, there is ample support for LAFCO's finding in ultimate 3 facts and it should not have been overturned on review by the 4 trial court.

5 V

6 REQUEST FOR PROSPECTIVE APPLICATION

7 In the event that this court determines that MORGA's 25% 8 signature requirement applies to an incorporation which is part of 9 a plan of reorganization under the DRA, EPACCI and the Respondents 10 ask that the ruling be made prospective only. They ask that the 11 25% requirement not be applied to EPACCI's petition filed in Octo-12 ber, 1982, but that it be applied only to petitions filed in the 13 future.

14 The courts have authority to make their rulings prospective
15 and have done so based on considerations of equity and public 16 policy. The factors to be considered were set out by the United 17 States Supreme Court and have been adopted by the California 18 Supreme Court. In Chevron Oil Co. v. Huson, 404 U.S. 97, 92 S.Ct.
19 349, 30 L.Ed. 2d 296 (1971), the Court set forth three factors to 20 be considered when deciding whether to make a decision prospec-21 tive. The Court said,

22 In our cases dealing with the nonretroactivity 23 question, we have generally considered three separate 24 factors. First, the decision to be applied nonretro-25 actively must establish a new principle of law, either 26 by overruling clear past precedent on which litigants 27 may have relied, see, e.g., Hanover Shoe v. United 28 Shoe Machinery Corp., supra, 392 U.S. at 496, 88 S.Ct.
at 2233, or by deciding an issue of first impression whose resolution was not clearly foreshadowed, see, e.g., Allen v. State Board of Elections, supra, 393 U.S. at 572, 89 S.Ct. at 835. Second, it has been stressed that "we must...weigh the merits and demerits in each case by looking to the prior history of the

1 rule in question, its purpose and effect, and whether 2 retrospective operation will further or retard its 3 operation." Linkletter v. Walker, supra, 381 U.S. at 4 629, 85 S.Ct. at 1738. Finally, we have weighed the 5 inequity imposed by retroactive application, for 6 "[w]here a decision of this Court could produce sub-7 stantial inequitable results if applied retroactively, 8 there is ample basis in our cases for avoiding the 9 'injustice and hardship' by a holding of nonretro-10 activity." Cipriano v. City of Houma, supra, 395 U.S.
11 at 706, 89 S.Ct. at 1900.

12 Chevron, supra, 404 U.S. at 106-107, 92 S.Ct. at 355, quoted in 13 Ralston Purina v. County of Los Angeles, 56 Cal.App. 3d 547 at 14 559, 128 Cal.Rptr at 564 (1976).

15 The California Supreme Court and courts of appeal have 16 followed this reasoning. In Westbrook v. Mihaly, 2 Cal. 3d 765, 17 87 Cal.Rptr. 830 (1970), the California Supreme Court said, "'the 18 decision whether to apply an overruling decision retroactively or 19 prospectively only turns on considerations of fairness and public 20 policy'....This is the rule we have adopted in California" 21 (citations omitted), 2 Cal. 3d at 800, 87 Cal.Rptr. at 864. See 22 also Daly v. General Motors, 20 Cal. 3d 725 at 743, 144 Cal.Rptr.
23 380 at 391 (1978); Neel v. Magana, 6 Cal. 3d 176 at 192, 98
24 Cal.Rptr. 837 at 848 (1971); Connor v. Great Western Savings, 69
25 Cal. 3d 850 at 868, 73 Cal.Rptr. 369 at 379 (1968), In Re Marriage
26 of Brown, 15 Cal. 3d 838 at 850, 126 Cal.Rptr. 633 at 640 (1976); 27 People v. Hitch, 12 Cal. 3d 641, 117 Cal.Rptr. 9 (1974).

28 These principles have frequently been applied in elections cases. Thus, in Allen v. State Board of Elections, 393 U.S. 544, 89 S.Ct. 817 (1969), the Court found that several Louisiana elections had been conducted in violation of Section 5 of the 1965 Voting Rights Act. Nevertheless, the Court decided not to set aside the elections, saying, "These §5 coverage questions involve

1 complex issues of first impression -- issues subject to rational
2 disagreement", 393 U.S. at 572, 89 S.Ct. at 835.

3 In a recent case, the California Supreme Court found a refer-4 endum petition invalid, but refused to apply its ruling to the 5 case before the Court. In Assembly v. Deukmejian, 30 Cal. 3d 638, 6 180 Cal.Rptr. 297 (1982), the court found that a statewide refer-7 endum petition violated §3516(c) of the Elections Code, which 8 requires signers of petitions to list their residence address.
9 The Court nevertheless decided not to apply its ruling to peti-
10 tions already circulated in that case, 30 Cal. 3d at 652, 180
11 Cal.Rptr. at 305.

12 Applying those principles to the case at bar gives this 13 court authority to make its decision prospective. The first 14 factor is whether the decision has established "a new principle of 15 law...by deciding an issue of first impression whose resolution 16 was not clearly foreshadowed", Ralston, supra, quoting Chevron, 17 supra. There is no case law applying the signature requirements 18 of MORGA to a reorganization under the DRA. In addition, the 19 statutes themselves were found by the trial court to be unclear, 20 stating, "The court does feel that the Legislature should address 21 the problem outlined above and clarify the procedure" (J.A., 22 p. 1166). There is no case law which would foreshadow such a 23 decision.

24 A similar situation occurred in England v. Louisiana, 375 25 U.S. 411, 84 S.Ct. 461 (1964). There, the Court clarified an 26 earlier opinion on the doctrine of abstention, but did not apply 27 its decision to the parties before the Court. The Court stated 28 that the parties had acted upon a mistaken view of the case law

1 and, "we cannot say, in the face of the support given the view by 2 respectable authorities, including the Court below, that appel-
3 lants were unreasonable in holding it or acting upon it", 375 U.S.
4 at 422, 84 S.Ct. at 468. The Court made its decision prospective.

5 The second issue is whether a retroactive application will 6 serve the purpose of the new ruling. The purpose of MORGA's 25% 7 requirement is to ensure that there is public support for the 8 incorporation proposal before LAFCO is required to investigate the 9 proposal and do research (J.A., pp. 239, 241). In the case at 10 bar, public support has already been shown by the April, 1982, 11 election at which more than 50% of the voters voted for incorpora-
12 tion. Additionally, LAFCO has already done all of the necessary 13 research and held all of the necessary hearings. Thus, the pur-14 pose of the statute has already been served in this case.

15 The third factor is the inequity of retroactive applica-16 tion. In this case, all of the people in East Palo Alto who 17 signed the 1982 petition and participated in the extensive hear-18 ings to support incorporation have relied on the 5% requirement of 19 the DRA. LAFCO itself relied upon the provision and accepted the 20 petition as complete. LAFCO has now spent $78,590.00 in studies
21 and hearings on the proposed incorporation (J.A., p. 1152). LAFCO 22 and EPACCI have each hired fiscal consultants to analyze and 23 reanalyze the data. Delay in an incorporation decision costs the 24 potential new city of East Palo Alto from $800,000.00 to 25 $1,000,000.00 per year (J.A., p. 1551). Thus, the local agencies
26 and the proponents of incorporation have invested time and money 27 in reliance upon the sufficiency of the petition.

28 In addition, the claim that the two-year waiver was not

1 proper could have been raised soon after it was granted in May,
2 1982. Had it been raised earlier, LAFCO would have had an oppor-
3 tunity to reconsider the issue without disrupting an election.
4 Similarly, EPACCI's petition was filed with LAFCO in October of 5 1982. Had the claim of its insufficiency been raised in a timely 6 way, EPACCI could have had opportunities to correct the matter.
7 EPACCI could have either sought the additional signatures or 8 requested that the Board of Supervisors initiate the proceedings
9 (DRA §56195). However, these issues were only raised in a peti-
10 tion for reconsideration on February 23, 1983, after the adminis-11 trative proceedings were completed. Application of the rule to 12 this case will reward the opponents of incorporation for failing 13 to raise issues in a timely way and it will cause a costly and 14 time-consuming repetition of hearings that have already occurred 15 twice.

16 Both MORGA and the DRA are to be liberally construed to 17 effectuate their purposes, MORGA §35006, DRA §56006. EPACCI and 18 the Respondents, therefore, ask this Court to make prospective any 19 decision applying MORGA's 25% requirement or its waiver require-20 ment to the DRA. Retroactive application would not serve the 21 purpose of the decision and would be inequitable under all of the 22 facts and circumstances of this case. EPACCI, LAFCO, the Board 23 and the County Clerk therefore ask that a decision upholding the 24 trial court be made prospective only.

2 REQUEST TO TAKE JUDICIAL NOTICE OF 3 INCORPORATIONS IN OTHER CITIES

4 At Horwath's request, the court below took judicial notice
5 of the number of signatures on six incorporation petitions filed 6 in other counties. The request violates Evidence Code §452 in 7 that it does not provide "reasonably indisputable accuracy", pro-8 vide enough information to permit the court to take judicial 9 notice of one petition (Avenal, Kings County) and all appellants 10 objected to the request. They ask that the decision to take judi-11 cial notice be reversed.

12 Horwath relies on Evidence Code §452(h) which requires that 13 the facts be "capable of immediate and accurate determination by 14 resort to sources of reasonably indisputable accuracy". Peter 15 Detweiler is the source of Horwath's information (J.A., p. 24).
16 Mr. Detweiler said that only five cities had been incorporated 17 subsequent to Proposition 13, whereas Horwath's attorney located 18 documents regarding a sixth such incorporation (J.A., p. 275).
19 Additionally, Mr. Detweiler said that in each instance the peti-20 tion was signed by at least 25% of the registered voters, whereas 21 the documents show that the Cathedral City petition was only 22 signed by slightly more than 5% of such voters (J.A., p. 285).

23 Mr. Detweiler's information is not of reasonably indisput-
24 able accuracy as required by Evidence Code §452(h). His state-25 ments leave a great deal of uncertainty about how many incorpora-26 tions there have been, how many were initiated and how many voters 27 signed the petitions. It is entirely unclear, even now, whether 28 Horwath claims that fifteen cities or sixteen cities have been

1 incorporated since Proposition 13. There is little reason to 2 believe that the information is complete or, as to Avenal, wholly 3 accurate. All appellants object to the court taking judicial 4 notice as requested. However, the material presented in the 5 request is of such marginal relevance that it should be dis-
6 regarded even if it is judicially noticed.

7 Horwath provides information about six incorporations. In 8 one case (Grand Terrace; J.A., p. 613) it is clear from the peti-9 tion that the petitioners were proceeding under MORGA, which 10 explains why they collected so many signatures. In three cases, 11 there is no information about what statute the petitioners thought 12 they were proceeding under (Kensington, Big Bear Lake, Hesperia, 13 Avenal; J.A., pp. 566, 626, 686). In the fifth case, the petition 14 shows that the proceedings were under the DRA, and the petition 15 met the DRA's 5% requirement (Cathedral Hill; J.A., p. 682).

16 Horwath has not demonstrated that any person involved in 17 any of the six proceedings believed that MORGA's 25% requirement
18 applies to an incorporation under the DRA, much less what LAFCO's 19 practice might be, if any. Even if someone had held such a 20 belief, that information is of small value as an aid to inter-21 preting the clear language of MORGA and the DRA. It is not 22 customary to survey either lay people or attorneys to determine 23 the numbers of people who favor one statutory interpretation or 24 another. It is more appropriate to rely on customary legal tools.
25 The statutes here are clear, and their interpretation by citizens 26 who circulate incorporation petitions is not determinative.

1 VII

2 CONCLUSION

3 In 1981, LAFCO determined that incorporation of a new city
4 of East Palo Alto would provide the government structure which 5 could best address the serious problems facing East Palo Alto.
6 The Board scheduled an election on that issue for April, 1982.
7 Despite a majority vote in East Palo Alto in favor of incorpora-8 tion, the structure of the ballot permitted incorporation to be 9 defeated by residents of Menlo Park. The benefits of incorpora-10 tion and the will of a majority of the residents were frustrated.

11 The issue, however, was of such importance that LAFCO
12 waived the two-year waiting period for filing another petition.
13 Such a petition was filed in October, 1982. In 1983, LAFCO again 14 found that incorporation was the best way to address the needs of 15 the community.

16 The ruling of the court below, if upheld, will again deny 17 the majority of citizens the opportunity to effect their will on 18 this critical issue and further delay the important benefits of 19 incorporation.

20 The Board, LAFCO and EPACCI believe the correct proceedings 21 have been followed and that the DRA requires a petition signed by 22 5% of the voters. In addition, they believe that the two-year 23 waiver was properly granted.

24 In the event the court disagrees, LAFCO, the Board and 25 EPACCI believe this new reading of the law raised so late in this 26 incorporation proceeding should only apply prospectively. It is 27 critically important for the community to resolve this vital issue 28 by the expression of a binding and effective majority vote.
