THE AMERICAN'S CREED

I believe in the United States of America as a government of the people, by the people, for the people; whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic; a sovereign nation of many sovereign states; a perfect union, one and inseparable; established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice, and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes.

I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it; to support its Constitution; to obey its laws; to respect its flag; and to defend it against all enemies.

Written by William Tyler Page

(From the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD)
The complete proceedings in regard to the official acceptance of The American's Creed may be found in the Congressional Record, No. 102, April 13, 1918, from which is taken the following explanation of the doctrinal origin of the creed:

"The United States of America."

—Preamble, Constitution of the United States.

"A government of the people, by the people, for the people."

—Preamble, Constitution of the United States; Daniel Webster's speech in the Senate, January 26, 1830; Abraham Lincoln's Gettysburg speech.

"Whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed."

—Thomas Jefferson, in Declaration of Independence.

"A democracy in a republic."

—James Madison, in The Federalist, No. 10; Article X of the amendments to Constitution.

"A sovereign Nation of many sovereign States."

—"E pluribus unum," great seal of the United States: Article IV of the Constitution.

"A perfect Union."

—Preamble to the Constitution.

"One and inseparable."

—Webster's speech in the Senate, January 26, 1830.

"Established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice, and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes."

—Declaration of Independence.

"I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it."

—In substance from Edward Everett Hale's The Man Without a Country.

"To support its Constitution."

—Oath of allegiance, section 1757, Revised Statutes of the United States.

"To obey its laws."

—Washington's Farewell Address; Article VI, Constitution of the United States.

"To respect its flag."

—National anthem, The Star-Spangled Banner; Army and Navy Regulations; War Department circular on flag etiquette, April 14, 1917.

"And to defend it against all enemies."

—Oath of allegiance, section 1757, Revised Statutes of the United States.

The Program to Honor America Started in 1970

The American Historic and Cultural Society, Inc. was established in June 1970 under the laws of the District of Columbia as an educational and charitable organization.

The HONOR AMERICA program of the Society was designed to increase the knowledge of the American public about its cultural heritage, constitutional form of government, and history, and to commemorate the anniversary of the independence of the United States of America.

This is accomplished by the dissemination to the public of educational materials on historic sites and state or federal government public facilities and by the conduct, sponsorship or dissemination of information about musical and cultural events available to the public featuring examples of American art, music and culture.

The events included in the programs suggest development of local historic ceremonies, parades, erection of monuments, band concerts, festivals of American folklife, viewing of historic documents in public buildings, contemporary musical entertainment and fireworks displays.

Help knit the ties of responsibility and fellowship that strengthen the foundations of America, particularly during the 21 days—FLAG DAY through INDEPENDENCE DAY.

—J. Willard Marriott
Chairman
Honor America Committee

HONOR AMERICA

The things that the Flag stands for were created by the experiences of a great people. Everything that it stands for was written by their lives. The Flag is the embodiment, not of sentiment, but of history. It represents the experiences made by men and women, experiences of those who do and live under the Flag.

—Woodrow Wilson

Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag

I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.
